UNIDENTIFIABLE ADDRESSES

If the address on the outside of a piece of first-class U.S. mail is illegible or incomplete, mailing services personnel open the item to determine the intended destination.

First-class mail that is completely unidentifiable is returned to USPS marked "insufficient address, return to sender."

Unidentifiable or insufficiently addressed standard-class mail endorsed by the sender with a Move Update endorsement such as "Address Correction Service" is returned to the sender marked "insufficient address."

Unidentifiable or insufficiently addressed standard-class mail without a Move Update endorsement is discarded.

PERSONAL MAIL

As a courtesy to new faculty and staff members, University mailing services departments deliver incoming personal mail that is properly addressed for one month after employment start date. NOTE: Personal mail service is provided on a temporary basis only. The employee is responsible for notifying all correspondents of her or his non-University mailing address within one month of employment.

Personal packages for all employees are retained by the campus mailing services department. The mailing services office notifies the employee of the package's arrival and when it may be picked up.

When dealing with outside mail sources, WSU personnel are not to indicate WSU as an appropriate address for personal mail. WSU employees on sabbatical are not to have personal mail forwarded to their department.

POSTAGE DUE ITEMS

University mailing services departments refuse delivery of postage due items.
