ADMISSION — Individuals must be admitted to WSU and pay the admission application fee in order to be eligible. Individuals not enrolled the previous two semesters must reapply for admission. Contact the Office of Admissions or the Graduate School for admission information.

ENROLLMENT/FEES — The tuition fee waiver may be used for up to six semester credits each fall and spring semester. Tuition and mandatory fees may be waived for courses taken on audit basis as well as for courses taken for credit.

Individuals may enroll for additional credits, but tuition and mandatory fees for only the first six credits associated with the eligible courses are waived. Refer to the Summary of Academic Policies in the WSU Catalog for additional information on enrollment limits. For students enrolled in nine credits that include a combination of courses taken on an audit basis and courses taken for credit, the cost of the audited courses will be waived before the cost of the courses taken for credit. Hours in excess of six are subject to regular tuition and mandatory fees. To calculate the costs, subtract the cost of six waived credits from the total tuition and mandatory fees for the semester and add the five dollar non-refundable administrative fee, special course or laboratory fees. Fees must be paid by the tenth day of the term to avoid late payment fees.
